Our House is built on the simple idea that nothing else should be a matter of concern when a family is focused on the health of their loved one – not where they can afford to stay, where they will get their next meal, or where they will lay their head to rest. Last year, we served over 4,000 guests and I am still moved by their strength and grace as they endure some of the most trying times in their lives. Working with and for these courageous individuals is an honor.

As Charlotte’s medical community provides more access to critical medical treatments and medical trials, the need for affordable lodging for the patients and families we serve is paramount. As we look to the future, we are committed to serving even greater numbers. We recognize that the need is great and that we could not do it without you. Thank you to all who have given their time, resources, and energy. Each of you is an extension of the House and keeps our mission moving forward.

I remain humbled to be part of such an incredible organization that recognizes the need to embrace those facing medical crisis, to empower healthy outcomes, and to extend the access to affordable lodging for those undergoing care.

My sincerest thanks,

Angie Bush, Executive Director
Hospitality House of Charlotte provides the comforts of home for patients and families experiencing medical crisis in the Charlotte area.
Last year HHOC was a home away from home for 4,080 patients or family members who were experiencing medical crisis.

- 833 were fighting cancer
- 369 were recovering from or awaiting an organ transplant
- 529 were receiving cardiac care
- 126 were battling a traumatic illness or injury
- 96 were in neonatal care
- 258 were receiving neurological care
- 87 were in the ICU

Our other guests faced a variety of serious illnesses or injuries.
Drew Pescaro was one of the victims of the tragic shooting that took place on UNC Charlotte’s campus on April 30, 2019. During his treatment and recovery, we had the privilege of housing his mother, father, and girlfriend.

“Traumatic experiences and illnesses don’t always happen when you’re home, and I never in a million years really thought about it. I always thought, ‘If I’m home I can go back and forth to a hospital.’ But I never thought I’d be in a situation where we’d be this far from home and for a month. Having a place for families to go that’s safe, walking distance to the hospital, that is a warm, loving place, just is so, so important.”

Nearly 25% of our guests are cancer patients.

The Boggs
It didn’t take long for Doug and Brenda Boggs to become part of the HHOCS family. Whether it was the smell of bacon cooking in the kitchen every morning, or the friendly hellos as you passed them in the hallway, the Boggs always brought a light to the house. On October 11th, after 111 days spent at HHOCS, the Boggs received news that Brenda had gone into remission and they were able to return home.

*WITHIN TWO YEARS OF BEING DIAGNOSED WITH CANCER, ABOUT 42% OF FAMILIES DEPLETED THEIR ENTIRE LIFE’S ASSETS.
“62% of cancer patients report being in debt due to their treatment.

With the cost of our rooms being $155 less than the average cost of a hotel in Charlotte, we saved our families over $1 million in lodging costs alone last year.

The Cascios
Carol and Patrick Cascio were regular guests at HHOCC while Patrick received cancer treatment. On October 9th, they checked in for what they thought was going to be a normal length of stay. After Patrick’s appointment at Atrium Health that morning, they came back into the house with huge smiles and the good news. We will miss them, but were touched to share in their joyful moment.
2019 ANNUAL FALL LUNCHEON

Thursday, October 17th, marked our 10th Annual Fall Luncheon at the Sheraton Le Méridien Hotel in Uptown Charlotte. In a program led by Fox 46 Charlotte Sports Director, Will Kunkel, we shared updates, milestones, and an inspiring story from the Pescaro Family with our nearly 300 attendees. We were honored to feature the Pescaro family, whose son, Drew Pescaro, was one of the shooting victims at UNC Charlotte. During his treatment and recovery, we had the privilege of housing his mother, father, and girlfriend for over 20 days. Their testament to HHOC stabilizing them during their crisis, helped to shed a light on the impact we can make with the help of our supporters.

We also awarded our Joe Mann Memorial Award to Le Méridien and Sheraton Charlotte Hotel, for showing tremendous support to HHOC as a Platinum Corporate Partner! Over $92,000 was raised through the luncheon, which surpassed our goal of $89,000. A portion of our success was due to matching gifts from our generous partners Checkers Charitable Foundation and Pinnacle Financial Partners. Thank you to everyone in attendance and for the unwavering support!

1400 FOR 1400 SCOTT

In March 2019, 74 participants challenged themselves in our month-long peer-to-peer fundraising campaign. In efforts to market the campaign with a direct tie back to our mission, we rebranded the campaign as 1400 for 1400 Scott. $1,400 is the approximate amount that it costs to operate our house for one night, allowing supporters to visualize their direct impact.

We are looking forward to an exciting new format for this crucial fundraising campaign in 2020.
The Hospitality House was a perfect fit for our situation. We needed to stay close to the hospital after my husband's stem cell transplant in case he spiked a fever or anything else because of his low immune system. He was being checked 3 times a week and traveling made him sick to his stomach.

“I really appreciated the transportation to and from the hospital to the house. It gave me peace of mind for my safety and also allowed me to stay later with my patient.”

“When I walked into the house, the gentleman at the desk said “Welcome home! You have had a long day, I hope you rest well.” I was the one who burst into tears with that simple kindness. You will never know how much that meant.”

“Charlotte is a difficult city to find your way around if you don’t live in or around it. The hospital campus is large and confusing to newcomers. Hospitality House was a haven of calm and quiet after a day of emotionally charged medical business.”

“In a world of hurt, all of you remind us of the home we will journey to one day at the end of all suffering.”
Q: How did you decide to volunteer for Hospitality House?
A: I knew I wanted to volunteer and give back in some way, so I actually googled non-profits in Charlotte and HHOC came up in my search. I’m originally from Marquette, Michigan and there is an organization similar to Hospitality House’s mission that I was familiar with so I knew HHOC would be a good fit for me.

Q: What’s your favorite part about volunteering with us?
A: Seeing the guests’ appreciation for HHOC. I can see how relieved the guests look when a meal has been prepared for them, a bed to sleep and rest, and even day guest have an appreciation of being able to just do their laundry and take a shower. It’s just great to see how HHOC can bring a sense of calm and peace to people that are experiencing chaos.

Q: With so many amazing causes and worthy non-profits, why do you think people should support Hospitality House of Charlotte?
A: Working in the healthcare field, I come in contact with a lot of people. Every chance I get, I’m telling people about HHOC. I share what I’ve encountered and how grateful people are to have access to a place like HHOC. When I see the sense of peace that people feel when they walk through our doors, I think it’s important for people to know that a place like HHOC exists and how many people we are helping.

Our Corporate Partners are dynamic in making a lasting impact on the mission of Hospitality House of Charlotte. The support we have received from our Corporate Partners is crucial as we aim to reach patients and families in medical crisis. In addition to fiscal support, included in our Corporate Partnership packages are varied opportunities for volunteerism for employees.

Whether it’s cooking a meal, putting up holiday décor, or making a goodie bag filled with the comforts of home - we strive to make mission inspired opportunities so our partners can see firsthand the good they provide to many in need. Thank you to our Corporate Partners for helping shape our mission in big and small ways!
